FOR GOVERNOR,

MAJ. GEN. JOHN W. GEARY,

OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Andy Johnson and John Tyler.

We were in error in stating that the passage of the Civil Rights bill over the veto of the President was the first instance of the kind in our history.

A similar victory of Congress over the Executive occurred during the term of John Tyler. In the fourth year of the reign of that potentate, Congress passed an act declaring that it should be unlawful for the President to take money from the Treasury to build revenue cutters, unless an appropriation should first be made by law therefor. John Tyler vetoed this bill as he had vetoed three others. It was returned to Congress and passed over his head by a two-thirds majority in both houses, and from that day to this, though many bills have been vetoed, none has been passed over a veto until now. The coincidence is striking, but not more striking than the fact that Andrew Johnson himself, nearly twenty years ago, made a speech in the House of Representatives, alluding to Tyler's vetoes, in which he said:

"We will pass by the administration of Mr. Van Buren to that of John Tyler, called by some men not by name in derision, the Accident President," who exercised this power four times; and under his administration is the only instance in which a law was passed over a veto since the organization of the Government."

The parallel is now complete.

General Geary and the Pennsylvania Railroads.

The business men of Pittsburgh have proposed three questions to General Geary, the Union nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, touching his views on the railroad policy of the State. He was asked if he would use the power of his office, if elected, to defeat any attempt to create or foster a railroad monopoly in the State; to prevent the Pennsylvania Railroad Company being authorized to build branches, except under the provisions of a general railroad law; and to favor the passage of a general railroad law, Gen.

Geary replies:

I answer to the first interrogatory, that while

I believe it improper to bring the influence of the Executive Department to bear upon the Legislature, in anticipation of its action, except in the way of recommendation, I am heartily opposed to the creation of any monopoly in the railroad system of the State, or giving any artificial body created by the Legislature the power would place it above and beyond the reach of the Legislature.

To the second interrogatory, I say, that while a general railroad system would be compatible with a sound public policy, it must originate with the Legislature, and until it shall be established by law, grants of power may be properly made to railroads to construct branches when they are desired by the people, and who are deeply interested in the matter and would promote development of their property, and should themselves be careful not to violate individual rights or interests.

In reply to your third question, which to my mind includes both the others, I say, again, that I believe a general law regulating the construction of railroads and grants of power for that purpose to be most consistent with public policy and the interests of the Commonwealth; and en-

Union Meeting in Knoxville—A Characteristic Speech from Governor Brownlow.

Governor Brownlow has been at his home in Knoxville for some days, recruiting his shattered health. At the invitation of the German Union League of that city he addressed a large assembly of his fellow-citizens on Saturday last.

He prefaced his remarks by asking their indulgence, as he was feeble, but promised them to be brief and to the point. He said that parties were again at work, seeking an ascendency in the Government. The Democratic party, under a new guide and new leader, was again asking counsel from the people. The first of August was a Democratic measure. The Southern States were all Democratic when they went in the rebellion. The revenue stamps you are now issued with are Democratic, and so are the dis-franchises.

I announce to you that if Andy Johnson is to lead the way in reconstruction, with the Democratic party at his back, I go on either way.

With the Congress of the United States, the so-called radicals, I do not fear to side with them. The name of radical has no terrors for me. I have been known as a "damned blue-light bug" and "damned radical," and I think it cheap if they would now let me off by calling me a "damned radical."

There are two "human monsters" now engaging the attention of the American people. Their names are on every man's lips. I refer to Sumner and Stevens. President Johnson is engaged in a bitter warfare against them. To abuse these men is the test of loyalty to Johnson's prescription. They are both men of ability and unblemished character. Stevens has sacrificed more for the Union than any five men in East Tennessee, and is a better man than any two men who ever lived in the South. I am not afraid to endorse these men on my own "dunghill." We must let the radicals or reconstructed Democrats

I prefer to decide with the former class.

On the negro suffrage question I have only to say that, for the present, I am willing to be content with the Congress of the slaves, and with the privilege given them to testify in the courts. I differ from President Johnson on this subject.

He says he is in favor of allowing negroes to vote who can read, who own $250, who have been in the army, and of gradually extending the right of suffrage to all. It was through his influence that we succeeded in passing the negro testimony bill through our Tennessee Legislature. He wrote letters and sent telegrams asking members to support the bill. It was through his help that the bill became a law. He went further than I ever did. I want them to be qualified first; it will come in time. They voted in Tennessee prior to 1855.

I have some secrets to tell of the Freedmen's Bureau bill. I think the bill was objectionable, and it might have been proper for me to veto it; but President Johnson ought not to have done it.

General Johnson drew up a bill to veto it.

They carried it to the President and read it to him, section by section. He favored it. General Fiske thought the expense would be too great, but the President said, "No." He urged it, and they carried it to the President and read it to him, section by section. In the meantime he got into a personal quarrel with Sumner and others, and when the bill came before him for his signature he vetoed it, after having promised
